EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Robert Lord on October 16, 2007.

The application has been amended as follows:

Claim 1: replace the whole claim with following;

"A method for sharing multiple resources among users using an arbiter comprising:

receiving by the arbiter an indication from a first user as to whether the first user wishes to be speculatively allocated a first resource, allocating the first resource speculatively to the first user for use during an access interval, absent a request for the first resource from the first user, when the first user wishes to be speculatively allocated the first resource according to the indication, wherein speculatively allocating the first resource comprises allocating the first resource according to one of a fixed priority scheme and a scheme allocating the resource to a user with the fewest request."

Claim 22: replace the whole claim with following;

“An apparatus comprising:

a plurality of users; and an arbiter coupled to receive request for use of resources by respective users and to receive an indication from a first user of the plurality of users as to whether the first user wishes to be speculatively allocated a resource, wherein the arbiter is responsive to speculatively allocate the resource to the first user for use during an access interval, absent a request from the first user for the resource, when the first user wishes to be speculatively allocated the resource according to the indication.”

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claim 1-9, 11, 12, 14-17, 19, 20, 22-31, 34-36, 39, 40, 42, 43 and 45-51 are allowed.

3. The present invention is directed to a method for speculatively allocating resources. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocating the first resource according to one of a fixed priority scheme and a scheme allocating the resource to the user with the fewest requests within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 1 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocates the first resources to the first user according to the first user having requested the first resource during a previous arbitration cycle within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 4 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocating the first resource according to which of the users had the most requests for all resources combined, for a predetermined number of previous arbitration cycles within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 8 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocating the first resource according to which of the users had the most grants for a predetermined number of previous arbitration cycles within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 9 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocating the first resource according to a fill level of at least one of a send queue and a receive queue associated respectively with a user and resource for an arbitrated data transfer within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 11 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising a maximum number of resources unallocated by the arbiter for a particular access cycle are speculatively allocated for use during the particular access cycle within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 12 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to an apparatus comprising the arbitration logic receives an indication from a first user of the plurality of users as to whether the first user wishes to be speculatively allocated a resource within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 22 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to an apparatus comprising speculatively allocating the resource according to which of the users received the most grants for the resource or made the most requests for the resource, during a predetermined number of previous arbitration cycles within a structure of the claim.

These features are claimed in the independent claim 28 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to an apparatus comprising an arbiter coupled to receive requests for use of resources by respective users, the arbiter responsive to speculatively allocate a first resource to a first user of the plurality of users for use during an access interval, absent a request from the first user for the first resource; and wherein the arbiter speculatively allocates more than one resource, including the first resource, to the first user for use during the access interval within a structure of the claim.

These features are claimed in the independent claim 34 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising the second resource is allocated utilizing a second arbitration cycle, subsequent to the first arbitration cycle, the second arbitration cycle arbitrating those requests received after the start of the first arbitration cycle within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 39 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to an apparatus comprising receive at least a second group of requests after the start of the first arbitration cycle, and to determine additional allocation of the resources according to the second group of requests during a second arbitration cycle, the second arbitration cycle being shorter than the first arbitration cycle, the first and second arbitration cycles allocating resources for use during the particular access interval within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 43 and render it allowable. The prior arts in the record fail to teach or make obvious to a method comprising speculatively allocating the first resource comprising using a scheme allocating the first resource to a user with the fewest requests within a structure of the claim. These features are claimed in the independent claim 51 and render it allowable.
